The Master of Public Policy (M.P.P.) degree program is designed to provide professional training in public policy for those seeking careers in the design, adoption, implementation, and evaluation of public policies. The professional careers students should be prepared for include the full range of careers for which public policy expertise would be valued: national, state, and local government agencies, think tanks and consulting firms, non-profit organizations, and lobby firms and private sector organizations engaged in public affairs representation. The core of the M.P.P. degree curriculum provides students with a strong knowledge base relevant to public policy rooted in the social science disciplines of economics, political science, sociology, and psychology housed in the College of the Liberal Arts along with training in quantitative policy analysis and evaluation. And through its specialization course requirements, it provides students with public policy relevant training across a wide spectrum of substantive public policy areas drawing on expertise found on the University Park campus. Students work closely with faculty to design a specialization curriculum around their core course work.
